Tips from the Chef

This handy cookbook will illustrate how to get the most out of your Cosori Food Dehydrator.

Cleaning the Trays

- Soak the trays in hot, soapy water for easy removal of food residue between the tray grooves.
- If you don't have a large enough sink to soak the trays in, use a soft-bristled brush to brush away food residue.

Cleaning the Base

- Remove chunks of food that may have fallen onto the base.
- Dampen a clean washcloth with warm water. Use the washcloth to remove any food residue on the base of the dehydrator.
- Make sure to thoroughly dry the base before using the dehydrator again. Do not immerse the base in water.

Handling Stale Food

- Do you have stale cookies, crackers, cereal, or chips? Missing that satisfying crunching sound? No problem. Re-crisp your stale foods with ease! Place them in a single layer on the dehydrator trays and dehydrate at 150°F / 65°C for 1 to 2 hours.
- Dehydrate stale bread slices to make breadcrumbs. Dehydrate stale bread slices at 125°F / 50°C for 4 to 6 hours, then pulse in a food processor.

Storage

- Store your dehydrated food in airtight containers, mason jars, or it may be vacuum sealed. Do not store directly in metal containers.
- If storing in freezer bags, make sure to remove as much air as possible before sealing.
- After dehydrating, food will be warm. Before storing, make sure to let your food cool for 30 minutes to 1 hour, or until it has come completely to room temperature.
- Fruit must be conditioned prior to long term storage. To condition, after the dried fruit has cooled to room temperature, store in a clear, glass jar with a tight-fitting lid. Do not pack the fruit too tightly into the jar. Let the fruit sit for a week and check it daily for any signs of moisture or condensation. Shake the jars daily to create the opportunity for pockets of moisture to form. If any moisture is visible, return the dried fruit to the dehydrator for additional dry time. If any mold is apparent at any time, discard the entire batch. Vegetables do not need to be conditioned but can be for additional safety.
- Storage temperature should be 50°F / 10°C or lower. Foods should be stored in a cool, dark place in a container devoid of moisture and oxygen, as those elements will introduce spoilage.
- You can store dried fruit, vegetables, herbs, nuts, and bread for up to 1 year in the refrigerator or freezer.
- Dried meats, poultry, and fish should only be stored for 3 months if kept in the refrigerator, or up to 1 year in the freezer.

Dehydrating Food

- If there are items in your dehydrator that are taking a while to dehydrate, do NOT attempt to rectify the situation by turning up the temperature. Try to even out the cuts on the pieces of food, rearrange the food on the trays, or rotate the trays in the dehydrator instead.
- The large capacity of this dehydrator means that each recipe will need to be doubled, tripled or sometimes quadrupled in order to fill every tray.
- Foods with similar dry temperatures can be placed in the dehydrator at the same time on different trays, even if they have different dry times. Simply remove each food as it is finished.
- Be aware that foods placed in the dehydrator together may mix aromas due to air flow patterns, so plan accordingly. Avoid dehydrating foods with strongly clashing flavor profiles at the same time.
- Adding lemon juice to fruits, like apples and bananas, can help prevent them from turning brown. Squeeze lemon juice over your fruits or let them sit in a solution of lemon juice and water for 5 minutes before dehydrating.
- Choose lean meats or cut the fat off of fatty meats when making jerky. Fat can turn rancid and affect the quality of your food.
- Choose non-fat dairy products such as milk, yogurt, or cheese when dehydrating.
- Fatty products such as avocados, nut butters, coconut milk, olives and so on do not dehydrate well and will spoil.
- Blanch and shock any vegetables or foods prior to dehydrating that would normally be cooked before eating (potatoes, pasta, rice, green beans, etc.)
- Cut your food into evenly sized pieces. This will ensure that all food pieces finish dehydrating at the same time. You can partially freeze meat for even slicing. A mandoline slicer works best for slicing vegetables or fruit.
- If the food seems soft or spongy, place the food into the dehydrator for additional drying time. The ideal result is dry and firm, crisp, brittle, or leathery, depending on the item being dehydrated.
- Dehydrating times may vary based on local humidity and temperature, the humidity and temperature inside your home, the water content of the food, and the size of the food.
- To make any fruit or vegetable leather/bark, cook the food until tender and then puree it and season as desired. Do not add any fats or oils to the purée. Spread a thin layer of the purée onto the fruit leather trays and dehydrate at 135–145°F for 10 to 14 hours until completely dry. All leathers or barks can be ground into powders.
- All dried vegetables and fruits can similarly be ground into powders using a blender, food processor, or spice grinder.
- Only use the fruit leather trays when necessary — they will block crucial air flow when drying other items and slow down dehydrating times.
- Parchment paper and plastic wrap can be used to line all of the trays.
- Parchment paper should be used to line the mesh trays or fruit leather trays when foods that may stain the material are being dehydrated.

KIMCHI CHIPS

YIELD

4–5 servings

PREP

1 week

DEHYDRATE

8 hours

- 1 head Napa cabbage, quartered lengthwise
- ½ cup kosher salt
- 2 tablespoons sweet rice flour or 1 tablespoon granulated sugar
- 1 cup water
- 10 cloves garlic
- 1-inch piece fresh ginger, peeled
- ½ Asian pear, peeled and cored
- ½ yellow onion, quartered
- ½ cup gochugaru
- 3 tablespoons fish sauce

Items Needed

- Food processor fitted with the blade attachment
- 2 mason jars or glass jars with tight-fitting lids

- Cut the tough core out of the cabbage quarters and discard, then cut each quarter into approximately 2-inch-square pieces. Wash the cabbage leaves in very cold water and drain over a colander.
- Place the cabbage in a very large bowl. Add the kosher salt to the cabbage and toss to coat evenly. Let the cabbage sit in the salt for an hour, moving the cabbage with your hands occasionally to make sure the salt is evenly distributed. The cabbage should shrink in size by about half as it loses moisture.
- Rinse the salt from the cabbage leaves over a colander, working in batches to make sure it is all removed. Place the rinsed cabbage in a large, clean bowl.
- Combine the sweet rice flour and 1 cup of water in a small saucepan and whisk to combine. Warm over medium-low heat, stirring often, until it thickens and bubbles start to form. Set aside to cool.
Note: If you are using sugar instead of sweet rice flour, skip this step.
- Place the garlic, ginger, pear, and yellow onion into a food processor fitted with the blade attachment and blend until a smooth paste forms.
- Add the gochugaru, sweet rice paste or sugar, and fish sauce and pulse several times until fully combined.
- Coat the cabbage with the gochugaru paste, stirring to make sure each leaf is coated.
- Pack the kimchi into 2 mason jars, leaving 1 inch of room at the top. Press the cabbage down so the liquid rises up, then seal the lids tightly.
- Place the jars on a sheet tray to catch any liquid overflow and let the kimchi ferment at room temperature in a cool, dark place, for 1 to 7 days. Check and taste the kimchi daily until it is fermented to your liking.
- Remove the kimchi from the jars and pat them dry with paper towels, then lay the kimchi flat in single layers onto the Cosori Food Dehydrator trays.
- Set temperature to 160°F and time to 8 hours, then press Start/Stop.
- Remove the kimchi chips when done and let cool completely in the dehydrator before serving or blending into a powder for use as a seasoning.
